Final Notice to the Holders of Bonds to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company

Under the Plan of Reorganization, ratified by the decree of the Court, the time in which Bondholders should be allowed to participate in the benefits of the Plan, by the conversion of Bonds into Preferred Stock, was left to the discretion of the Purchasing Committee. More than three years having passed since this right was given, and more than nine-tenths of the Bondholders having converted their Bonds, the Committee deem of closing their labors, hereby give notice that the right of converting Bonds and receiving Preferred Stock will terminate on the 30th day of June, 1879.

Circulars giving information how the conversion is made can be had at the office of the Northern Pacific R. R. Co., No. 23 Fifth avenue, New York.

The original stock will be exchanged for stock under the Plan up to the same time.

MAINE STATE COLLEGE.

The Baccalaureate Sermon.

The following is a full abstract of the Baccalaureate sermon delivered by Rev. Cyrus Stone, of this city, before the graduating class at the Maine State College last evening:

Text—John 21: 21-22. Peter seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do? Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me.

The text opens to us a picture of two young men standing on the shore of the sea of Galilee. Their thoughts were upon the work which might fall to them in the coming years. With them stood also the Master of all masters, glorified from his recent divine victory over death and the grave. They were young men according to the Jewish standard which required ample preparation and somewhat of maturity on the part of those who were about to enter on the real work of life. But they had completed their course of training. The world was before them.

You too, my young friends, have reached an epoch in your history. College days are almost ended. The fields of active life are very near. With brave hearts and high hopes you are about to go forth to meet your future. A question of supreme importance to you therefore at this hour is the question what shall be your foremost all-controlling aim and effort in the vocation that you may each select. For the ends which you propose to yourselves, and the spirits in which you engage in your work, will determine in large measure whether life shall be a grand success, or a pitiable failure. May we not then spend a few moments in a brief consideration of the general subject of aims and purposes? Let us see if out of the many aims which men choose we may not find some one that stands out higher, worthier, grander than any of the others.

By many the acquiring of property is looked on as the important business of human life. To make a living and lay by something for possible contingencies is held up as the principal thing to be sought. Fathers encourage their sons to go through college that they may by education fit themselves to get better positions and better pay, and thus win their bread more easily. And the same spirit clamors for what are called practical branches of education, and regards with disfavor time spent on studies that do not smell of dollars and cents. The young man chooses his occupation with reference to anticipated pecuniary returns, and dreams of bonds and lands and a pleasant home and whatever wealth can supply.

Now it must be conceded that we are in a world where the getting of a living does require thought. It is certainly right that a man should exert himself to procure food and raiment and shelter both for himself and those who may be dependent on him. It is right that he should make provision for future needs. No Eden untilled gently drops her golden fruit of life upon our tables. And we further contend that the creation of wealth is a public good. Let men build ships and railroads and factories. Let them turn the unproductive wilderness into a fertile garden. It is the special office of the State College to aid in making the immense resources that the God of nature has placed within our reach contribute more readily to supply the varied wants of an advancing civilization. The State never made a better investment than when she established this college. In all her industries she shall reap compound interest as long as her sons continue to gather here for instruction and her rivers flow to the sea.

But the question before us is: Shall the getting together of property and the creating of wealth be the controlling thought—the deep underlying thought that gives shape to our lives? Shall it be the foremost aim?—Let reason answer. Reason replies: This life is but the little point from which extends away an immortal existence. Soon we leave this infinitesimal point of time and launch forth on the shoreless ocean of eternity. When we go, we can carry none of our earthly possessions with us. Surely then our brief life ought to have some higher object than the mere acquisition of what must all be left behind when the soul goes out into eternity. That is the answer of reason.

Now let experience answer. Experience replies: The putting of one's chief thought on the acquisition of wealth tends to narrow and debase a man. It leads to avarice. It leads to selfish disregard of the rights and feelings of others. When a man says, money I will have, he is very apt to become unscrupulous about the way he gets it. Then the more he gets the more he wants, and is never satisfied. Experience also teaches that earthly riches often take to themselves wings and fly away, and those who have toiled hard for years behold the accumulations of a life time suddenly vanish. Surely then we may find both a nobler and more satisfactory aim.

But what says the Bible—our best authority on subjects of this character? The Bible encourages industry, frugality, economy. It declares that if a man will not work, he must not have the privilege of eating. But it also points out the danger of excessive devotion to making money. It holds up—not money itself—but the love of money as the root of all evil. It declares the impossibility of serving Mammon and God at the same time. The answer of the Bible on this subject may be summed up in the words of Jesus Christ: "How hard is it for them that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!" In other words, how hard for such to be true men! The disciples were astonished at these words. In the light of reason and experience no one need be astonished.

We are forced to the conclusion, therefore, that while the working for money is right and commendable, yet the selection of this as the supreme aim of life is not the part of wisdom. Money must be sought not as an end but as a means, not for itself but for a higher purpose. The supreme aim must reach above the gold and bank notes. And the world will always honor those who can find no time to make money, but put their minds and hearts into some chosen work which they deem more important than the mere accumulation of property.

What aim then may we find for the inspiration of our efforts that is nobler, grander? Some in reply answer: Self Culture. It shall be our great aim to make the most of ourselves. We will seek knowledge; we will cultivate our mental powers; we will have books, the choicest of society, whatever may refine and elevate. Our money shall be used to obtain the means of self improvement. With this purpose in view youths enter upon a course of study not simply to fit themselves for business, but that they may become persons of superior intelligence, more refined taste, broader culture—ornaments in any sphere. On this principle it is the object of education to send out not a mere man of business, but a perfect man—one who will be a man nobly in business but everywhere.

Well, self culture is a noble aim. It is the office of the college to turn out men and women of culture. And persons are to be commended who resolve that in the midst of the busiest cares they will yet find time for mental improvement—a little for reading and communion with the great master spirits of the ages—a little for enjoyment of the genius of the painter and sculptor—a little to hearken to the best thought that the platform or the pulpit can present. Culture is compatible with earnest work. England's most royal statesman of the present generation has found leisure in a life of severe public labor to cultivate an acquaintance with almost all branches of learning. His studies in the ancient classics have been with the enthusiasm and thoroughness of one who had nothing else to do. Among our own public men may be found now and then one whose acquaintance with history and literature make him a person of wide and varied accomplishments. Now if a Gladstone or a Sumner can amid the exacting toils of public station find time for such study, surely the farmer, the mechanic, the civil engineer can find time. Whatever your occupation you may and ought to seize enough of leisure for some liberalizing study outside your ordinary daily work. A Hugh Miller became a man of culture by study of rocks. Others have become men of culture by study of fishes or plants or the stars. He who becomes master in any department of investigation is a king in whatever field he goes abroad. The kinglihness is in him and upon him and he walks the earth a royal soul.

I repeat then, self culture is a noble aim. But is it the noblest? I confess that in one respect I see an objection to making it the chief object of our lives. For if it be made the chief aim, it seems to draw one's attention over much on self. There is danger lest the dear self be too much exalted, and that in the supreme effort to cultivate self we grow indifferent to some other things that ought also have our attention. The world has claims upon us. The church of the living God has claims upon us. Now if we devote ourselves with one main all-absorbing purpose to our own mental culture, however desirable that culture may be, we may overlook and neglect some of these other claims. Said an eminent divine: "Read the most useful books, and that regularly and constantly." But he also said "We ought to throw by all the libraries in the world rather than be guilty of the loss of one soul." Sentiments worthy of the scholar as well as of the divine. For when vice and intemperance are deadening the consciences of thousands, blasting their hopes, hurrying them to untimely graves and a dark eternity, the scholar may well arise from his books and hasten to rescue whom it is possible to rescue. Excessive devotion to self culture has a tendency to turn out polished heathens after the old Greek and Roman pattern.—The present age calls for large hearted souls of the self denying Christian type.

Well then, say others, the building up of right character shall be my chief aim. Science, literature, art, music, are things of less consequence; the great aim of my life shall be to be honest, pure, truthful. I aspire to goodness. Young friends, this is a grand purpose. If ever there was need of men of integrity, this age needs men of integrity. If even the church needed men of character, the church of this age needs men whose record shows no blot. Most earnestly therefore would I exhort you to strive to build up character that will resist any temptation to evil, and will come out of the furnace with not even the smell of the fire. Such character grows grander with years. Its base is the base of a great mountain; its peak towers above the clouds. A statesman of the republic, when offered a slight present by admiring friends in token of their appreciation of his services made the reply: "While I hold public office, I can accept no gifts, I can come under obligation to no one." The age needs more consciences of this sort. The age needs men who will not speculate in trust funds, men who will put good sound timber where it belongs, and putty and varnish where they belong.

But after all shall the uprearing of grand character be the great inspiring aim of life? I confess to a feeling that we may find an aim even more worthy than this. For the putting of the chief thought of life on the building up of one's own character seems liable to the same objection that we found in the case of self culture. It concentrates over much care on self. It incurs the hazard of developing the 'pharisaic spirit which says, "God, I thank thee that I am not as other men are." But again is it wise that a man all his life long devote his chief labor to the question, what he shall be? Is it by grand action that real grandeur of character is manifest. By their fruits ye shall know them. And the grandest characters have not been aware of their own grandeur. Their greatest deeds have been done in utter unconsciousness of their greatness. To have set those royal souls to thinking about themselves would have tarnished the glory of their best achievements. The Augustinian monk, Martin Luther, nailing his ninety-five theses to the church door of that ancient German town, did a sublime thing. It was sublime because he was solicitous not for his own fame but for the victory of God's truth. He was engaged primarily not in building up right character but in fighting actively for the triumph of right principle in the German fatherland.

If then the uprearing of character may not be the largest, thought in human life, what shall be the largest thought? Where shall we find a more worthy aim? Some will tell you that laying aside every anxiety it is their chief ambition to be happy and enjoy the good things that a kind providence has placed within our reach. God, say they, has created the world with the express design of evolving happiness in sentient being. He desires the happiness of his children. He has given them whatever is needful to happiness. Therefore let happiness be our chief aim. A life of virtue is a happy life: therefore we will walk in the way of virtue. Culture increases one's enjoyments: therefore we will have books, and music, and good society. Integrity ministers to a peaceful conscience: therefore we will be upright and preserve a conscience void of offence.

Now as to this philosophy of life what shall we say? It is true that God meant that we should be happy. The Bible says, "Rejoice." Jesus Christ says, Be of good cheer. It is every man's duty therefore to be happy. And I bid you, young friends, be as happy as you can. Take the bright view of life always. The seeking of happiness then is a right aim. But taken as the rule of life is it wholly right? Is there not danger that putting the supreme thought on personal happiness, we may break the law which says, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself?" Observation shows that those whose first thought is self are very apt to disregard the claims of others, and seek to turn everthing to personal profit to the neglect of the general good. They grow selfish, cold, calculating. A man's thoughts and efforts must reach beyond himself. "Love thyself last," is the voice of bitter experience put in the mouth of the disappointed Cardinal by the great poet of human nature. And he continues

"Let all the ends thou aim'st at, be thy country's, Thy God's and truth's: then if thou fall'st,..... Thou fall'st a blessed martyr."

There are those whose great thought all their days is to get to heaven. Happiness is still the one main object—if not happiness in this life, yet happiness in the land that is very far off. To seek heaven is indeed a worthy aim. It is urged upon us in Holy Scripture. This do, and live. This do, and win a crown that fadeth not away. But was it Paul's grandest thought to win the crown laid up? Was it the martyr's grandest aim? Said the apostle, "I press toward the mark for the prize."—But he also said, "I could wish myself accursed from Christ for my brethren." The man whose thoughts centers upon self and what he shall get for self is like the earth revolving on its own axis. The man whose thought reaches away from self is like the same earth sweeping on in a majestic orbit whose center is in the far off heavens.

In this view, then, to serve others and to do good is a grander aim. Another class, therefore, answer the important question shall be the controlling purpose of our lives. I think we have now hit upon a noble idea. For it is unquestionably every one's duty to consult the general welfare. No man liveth unto himself. No man ought to think of living for himself. He is either a burden or a help in society. He ought to be a help. What names are the honored names in the annals of time? The names of many a conqueror are written in letters of blood, and are pronounced only with execration. The honored names are they who have brought blessing to mankind, devoted from tyranny, leaders in the realm of thought, inventors of useful inventions, martyrs who have bled for the good of humanity.—They are the crowned. From the beginning God designed that we should be workers, and work out something useful. Man was placed in Paradise not to enjoy a life of idleness but to cultivate the garden. And I suspect that useful activity will be found a law of our immortal being—the occupation of eternity. I admire the young man who in the selection of his vocation has an eye to the amount of good that he may be able to accomplish. I admire him who engaging in his daily employment thinks more of the work than of the wages, and is more anxious to render honest service than to pocket the compensation. Hear that I admire such a man. And yet he simply acts on a principle on which every person ought to act, and from which none can be excused. I heartily endorse the decision of Moral Philosophy that "The man is unworthy of his calling who finds his chief satisfaction in the wages he receives and who hastens to shuffle off his work the moment he can live without it. Young men, God and the Commonwealth expect you to live lives of usefulness. The College sends you forth with her benediction that you may go about doing good. And what fields are before you! The Commencement season witnesses fresh companies of vigorous youth issuing from the colleges of our land and entering these fields. Says one, I will teach men how to build better houses.—Says another, I will show the people who inhabit them how to furnish them more economically. Says a third, I will show them how to keep disease away from their homes. A fourth, And I will show them how to keep it away. A fifth, And I will show them about the extirpation of the soil and the destruction of noxious insects. And thus every one of this vigorous army finds a waiting field of usefulness.

But what shall we conclude about this last mentioned aim? Shall we take it as the guide and inspiration of our lives? Can any objection be brought against it the one chief and controlling purpose? Very many answer at once, no objection can hold. And yet even here there is something lacking. Those who act on this principle often appear in sad need of a pilot. The humanitarian has his pet notions and insists upon them frequently in a most disagreeable manner. The reformer grows bitter with years. The milk of human kindness acquires a decided flavor of vinegar. Let me not be misunderstood. To work for the good of others is a lofty ambition. Would that more cherished this ambition. But many who make this their avowed chief aim seem wanting in the true deep charity without which life falls short of its highest ideal. There seems oftimes a coldness about their humanitarianism, a spirit of unlovely self assertion, and sometimes what of the Pharisee in the platform they occupy.

Must we then give up our search in disappointment, and conclude that there is no one aim which may safely be adopted as the chief aim—the all-quickening inspiration of our lives? I have already seen that to find the highest man must go entirely out of himself. But when we go out of ourselves, we need light to direct our efforts that we may work wisely, and further in rendering unselfish service the object toward which the service is to be rendered ought to be the worthiest, noblest, and where to be found by us. We ought not to be content with anything less. But how shall we find that worthiest? Let us glance, again at our text which we left somewhat abruptly at the beginning of our discourse. Its concluding words furnish a clue. In fact they give us the answer that we have been seeking. "Follow thou me." Jesus Christ instructing Simon Peter about his life work caps the whole and every particular with the pregnant motto. "Follow thou me."

Astronomy tells us that the moon revolves around the earth in a well defined path of its own,—that the earth with its revolving moon sweeps in a larger circuit around the sun,—that the sun itself with circling planets, and other suns with circling spheres revolve in yet wider circuit around a more distant center in the far off heavens. Circles roll within circles: every orb keeps its own path: there is perfect harmony and order among the ever moving globes. Now when the Lord Jesus Christ is made the center around whom our thoughts and plans in life revolve, all other aims fall into their appropriate orbits. They revolve in their appointed circles. They keep their own path. Every circle and circles sweeping within circles swing around Christ. And there is perfect order and perfect harmony. From Jesus Christ as the center goes out a power which holds every purpose and effort to its right orbit.

Follow thou me. Make unwavering devotion to the Lord Jesus the aim of life—the all-embracing aim,—and you will have inspiration, enthusiasm for successful performance in whatever you undertake. In your study of human events you may have noted the wonderful transforming power that a great leader exercises over his followers. He makes them heroes like himself. In one of the hard fought battles of the American Revolution the majestic form of Washington moved to the front. He passed on to the ground between the opposing fires. He towered there amid the smoke of battle and whistle of shot, an example to his wavering columns,—an inspiration to heroic effort. Young friends, I point you to Jesus Christ the grandest presence on the arena of human history. Follow Him, and all the noble aims that we have examined will receive fresh impulse. In regard to serving your generation His example bids you aim at highest usefulness. His true follower must give himself to unselfish work. To do good to others Jesus Christ made the finest sacrifice that the universe can ever witness. And what does He say to those whose supreme purpose is devotion to Himself? He says: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." And now the humanitarian has a pilot. He has an unchangeable rule of action. And if perchance the world may not always appreciate his well meant efforts, he will keep sweet and serene and hopeful.

I spoke of happiness as a worthy pursuit. I need not say to you that in carrying out the plans of Jesus Christ you may attain the highest happiness that mortals can know.

I spoke of building up right character. In following Jesus Christ your best hopes in that direction may have fulfilment. The noblest character is built on Jesus Christ. Many of the ideals of our childhood vanish as we grow older, but His matchless excellence waxes more attractive, more divine with our advancing years.

I spoke of self-culture. Jesus Christ would have them that follow rise to the peerless dignity of sons of God. To the scholar therefore He says, "Follow thou me," and bids him take delight with ever expanding intellect in study of the wonderful works and ways of the Creator and fit himself for the society of unseen worlds, whither the tides of life are bearing him.

I spoke of the acquiring of property. Jesus Christ declares that the laws of the universe are such that if your supreme aim is to follow Him the needful things of food and raiment shall not be wanting. Work and wages are assured in his good providence. But seek first, and first all the time, the kingdom of God, for what is the same thing, Him who is its head and inspiration. Then all these things shall be added unto you. Absolute devotedness to Jesus Christ will therefore make all grand aims yet grander, and put a new and powerful enthusiasm into life and labor. It will bring temporal blessing. It will bring character, happiness, the soul can desire of self culture, right usefulness,—all that purest, loftiest, best. It will make life a success. It will open the doors to a magnificent immortality. Follow first, last, always, and in the final outcome you shall not be disappointed.

In some way He will also make clear to each of you, as He did to Peter and John, the precise sort of work you will each do best to undertake. By leading you to observe your own special adaption or taste for a certain vocation, as by placing you in circumstances that seem to mark out a particular choice, as the right choice. He has already indicated to some of you his well laid plan for the happy shaping of your lives. To others it may be assigned to be minute men, ready for any call and not knowing what service may be theirs on the morrow. But Jesus Christ wants every young man and woman to have success. He means that following Him they shall each have what eternity will pronounce success.

In reading the passage containing the text, you can not fail to have noticed that the following there enjoined was primarily a literal following along the shimmering sea beach. But that literal act was designed to be symbolical and symbolized most expressively a complete following of body, soul, and spirit, of mind, heart, and will, and that too forever. For note that right here the curtain falls. Simon still following along the trend of the pebbly beach. The Evangelist tells no more. He leaves us to imagine the rest. Nor is it very difficult to fill out the picture. The form of Jesus moving along the shimmering beach till suddenly He vanishes in an upward sweep of ascension glory toward the gates of the everlasting kingdom. Now Simon Peter the lesson is complete. Whatever thy daily employment, follow the words and example of thy Lord. Follow with all thy soul, might, mind, strength, till then at length reach the gates that are bright with pearl.

Now in holding up the service of Christ as the foremost aim of a successful life am I holding up what is not practical? Am I holding up an abstraction? No, no, my young friends, for Jesus Christ is not an abstraction. He is a sublime reality. He was a living personality on the beach of Galilee. He is this hour a living personality in the heaven of heavens. Our vision of Him oftimes wanes indistinct, and our ears grow dull of hearing when He speaks. But let the clouds lift; let them float away. It we could see Him as He is; it we left His claims upon us, as indeed they are upon us, we never should dream of anything else but to follow. Nothing less is worthy of educated aspiring youth.—O thou Crucified, Risen, Triumphant ascended Lord, reveal Thyself in Thy beauty to these young hearts that they may seek only Thee. Make them fearless to follow Thee.

NEW MAGAZINES.

The July WIDE AWAKE, which, by the way, is a "thick number," having a sixteen-page Natural History Supplement, celebrates the national holiday with a frontispiece full of battle-smoke, and two capital patriotic stories, Bunker Hill Revived, by J. H. Woodbury, and General Washington and the Ragamuffins, by Annie E. Preston. The Children's Hour at the Old South, by Emma E. Brown, is also full of patriotic reminiscences, and is illustrated with thirteen fine drawings by Miss Humphrey. Then there is also a humorous Fourth of July poem, The Fire Cracker and Torpedo, by Clara M. Burnham, illustrated by Boz, who also illustrates the funny double-page poem, A Bad Fix. Palmer Cox has an humorous picture of the advance-guard of summer insects, entitled Coming!

The two articles of permanent value, however, are No. VII of Our American Artists series, relative to J. J. Enneking, with a portrait and studio, drawn in pencil and ink by the artist himself, and a beautiful engraving from Mr. Enneking's charcoal drawing of his painting, Winter Twilight at Hyde Park; and No. XXIV. of the Poets' Homes papers, about J. Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish poet and the editor of the Pilot.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers for the weeks ending June 14 and 21 respectively, contain the following articles: Origen and the Beginnings of Christian Philosophy, and Contemporary Life and Thought in France, Contemporary: The Secret Correspondence of Louis XV, Quarterly; William Kingdon Clifford, Fortnightly; Mrs. Craven and her work, Nineteenth Century; Old Chinese Fans, Frazer; Jannina—Greek or Turkish? Macmillan; Truth of Intercourse, Cornhill; Necessity of a Financial Viceroy for India, Economist: with installments of Sarah de Berenger by Jean Ingelow, and Doubtful Heart by Miss Keary, and the conclusion of The Romance of Mrs. Frances Kendrick; and the usual poetical selections. For fifty-two such numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,000 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low. Littell & Co., Publishers.

ST. NICHOLAS for July has eight extra pages and more than eighty illustrations. It opens with a country story, Dru's Red Sea, illustrated by Walter Shirlaw with a picture—the frontispiece of the number—which shows the young heroine on the roadside startled by an "old traveler." Next comes Nid-Nodding, a summer poem by Lucy Larcom, followed by an illustrated account of cod-fishing from a small rowboat on the Banks of Newfoundland. Farther on comes Blown Away a thrilling story, with a spirited picture of a thrilling railroad incident.

Boys and girls both, will take interest in the paper entitled, How to make a Hammock, with its ten plain diagrams, and clear descriptions of the process. Blossom-Boy of Tokio, an article by Professor William Elliot Griffis, tells of the curious ways of Japanese children, and contains thirty-two drawings by Japanese artists in their odd style. Mr. Moncure D. Conway contributes a story—The Child and the Image. The Fourth of July element finds expression in a stirring Patriotic March, a piano piece for four little hands, composed by William K. Bassford. Glories, by Sarah Winter Kellogg, with seven of Addie Ledyard's lovely pictures, narrates the happy fun of two children in a game with morning-glory blossoms. A Jolly Fellowship, Frank R. Stockton's serial story, takes its heroes, through an exciting diving episode, and leaves them aboard a burning ship; and Eyebright, the continued tale by Susan Coolidge, brings its chief character to the threshold of an adventure in a sea-cave.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINES.—The July number of the Eclectic, just issued, begins a new volume. The engraving this month is a finely expressive likeness of General Albert J. Myer, the "Old Probabilities" of the Weather Bureau at Washington. The contents of the number are as follows: "On the Study of Natural History, by Professor St. George Mivart; A Speech at Eton, by Matthew Arnold; The History of Games, by E. B. Tylor, LL.D.; John Brown. A True Story; Sydney Dobell A Personal Sketch, by Robert Buchanan; On Chinese Fans; Mr. Browning's Dramatic Idylls; A Problem in Human Evolution, by Professor Grant Allen; Mademoiselle de Mersac, a novel, chapters X. to XII.; Spring's Gifts, a poem; Two Impostors of the Eighteenth Century; Peter the Great; Literature and Medicine; Flowers and their Unbidden Guests; The Melancholy of Educated Englishmen, A Coquette, and a biographical sketch of General Albert J. Myer, to accompany the portrait. Besides these there are the usual editorial departments of Literary Notices, Foreign Literary Notes, Science and Art, and Varieties. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond Street, New York.

The July number of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE, which opens the twenty-fourth volume, is of a thoroughly popular character, and the variety and beauty of the illustrations, as well as the excellence and vivacity of the reading matter, show the steady advance which has marked the course of this periodical. The opening article, by Dr. Felix L. Oswald, is the first of a series entitled Summerland Sketches; or Rambles in the Back woods of Mexico and Central America, which promises to lead the reader into regions on this continent not described by any former traveler. The second article has for its subject Stratford-on-the-Sound, a village of Connecticut, with numerous engravings, and charming descriptions.

For many readers the chief attraction of this number will be in an article on Jefferson and Rip Van Winkle.—At and After the Play. It is written by an intimate friend of the great actor, Mr. L. Clarke Davis, who has gathered from his own lips the chief material for this biography, and who gives us an analysis of his art, a loving portraiture of his character, and glimpses of his domestic life. The illustrations, besides exhibiting Rip in each act of the play, include a portrait of Jefferson seated in his studio, and views of his beautiful country-seat among the hills of the Passaic.

The name of Thomas Hughes, author of "Tom Brown's School-Days," immediately commands a notice, and the article by him in this number will have a particular interest for American readers, being an able defence of Frank in against the animadversions and prejudices still current in England. A Swiss Patriot, by Arthur Venner, is the title of a very entertaining paper on Bonstetten.

A Republican State Convention

WILL BE HELD IN

NOROMBEGA HALL, BANGOR,

Thursday, June 26, 1879,

at 11 o'clock A. M.,

for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, and for transacting whatever business may properly come before it.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each city, town and plantation, and an additional delegate for every seventy five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876. A majority fraction will be entitled to a delegate.

The State Committee will be in session the evening preceding and at 9 o'clock the morning of the Convention, to receive the credentials of delegates.

In selecting the Delegates the Republicans are urged to assemble in full numbers and to invoke the aid and co operation of all voters who are willing to unite with them to the following ends.

1 To maintain the power and prestige of the Union against all attempts to subvert or oppose its just authority, and to insist that the Government of the United States shall be controlled by loyal men.

2 To discountenance and reprobate the treasonable and revolutionary course of the Democrats in Congress, who threaten to cripple and destroy the functions of the Government if Constitutionally prevented from enacting their partisan measures into Law.

3 To uphold the right of the United States to enforce its own laws wherever they are to operate, and to frown down and put down the dangerous heresy of the States Right secessionists who have already plunged the country into one bloody war, and who are now attempting to control the Government of the Union with the same measures that preceded the rebellion of 1861.

4 To insist upon free elections—not only free from National military interference which no one desires but also free from the interference and violence of so called State militia and the assassins who with deadly weapons have seized the polls in many of the Southern States, driving innocent and defenceless voters from the ballot-box and making a mockery of elections, which war upon free suffrage has been made a distinct political issue by every Democrat in the Senate and House voting against a measure designed to prevent and suppress it.

5 To uphold the financial credit of the Government and to assure to the people of all sections a sound currency, equivalent to coin at all times and in all places and redeemable in coin. And to this end to oppose all distracting, repudiating and mischievous effort s against the peace welfare and industrial prosperity of the people.

6 In these aims and purposes all citizens of Maine are invited to unite, that the hands of the President and of the Republican minority in both branches of Congress may be strengthened in their efforts to uphold the honor of the Government and the just authority of National Law.

By order of the Republican State Committee.

GEORGE C. WING, C. A. BOUTELLE, FRED N DOW, } Sub Committee.

AN EXQUISITE POEM.

One of the most sympathetic and thrilling episodes of the recent reunion of veterans in Albany, attended the reading of the exquisite poem, which we publish elsewhere by Mr William Winter, of the New York Tribune, at the banquet of the Society of the Army of the Potomac. Mr. Winter the author is well known as the dramatic and musical critic of the Tribune and also by poetical writings of rare merit. But it is safe to say that the Pledge to the Dead will be regarded as the purest and most polished gem in his literary crown. In rising to respond to a toast to "The Press" Mr Winter prefaced the reading of the poem by a few graceful and earnest remarks that imparted a special significance to the tenderly beautiful lines. He said that two years ago he had prepared and delivered before the Society a poem entitled "The Voice of the Silence," in which he had sought to express the earnest desire for reconciliation and harmony that pervaded the North in that Centennial season. Since then, he said, many events had occurred to change the aspect of affairs until there almost seems a doubt as to which side lost and which won in the great struggle of those bloody years. In view of the present situation it had seemed to him eminently fitting without abating one iota of the genuine desire for a true reconciliation on a basis of justice and patriotism that we should specially remember and renew our faith to those who laid down their lives in the cause of liberty and loyalty. He had therefore prepared his verses, which he read with a gentle and touching eloquence that played upon the emotions of all present as on the strings of a living harp. From death like stillness that prevailed for an instant after the closing word, the applause rose and swelled into round upon round of cheers, as the ratification by living comrades of that sacred "Pledge to the Dead." An enthusiastic vote of thanks was tendered the author, with a resolution to spread the poem upon the records of the Society, and the veterans, with moistened eyes, gathered around the modestly shrinking poet to clasp his hand and thank him for so beautiful an interpretation of the feeling in their hearts. To us it seems surpassingly sweet and we believe that Mr Winter can well afford to be remembered in the years to come as the author of those lines, which will live as long as patriotism and honor have a place in American literature.

UNMITIGATED CONTEMPT

[From the N Y Tribune]

Mr Lamar mistakes the name of his passion. In his anger at the plain and straightforward language with which Mr Conkling characterized the unprecedented conduct of the Democratic majority in attempting to stifle debate and force a vote on the Army bill he may have thought that the emotion with which he swelled was that of contempt. It was by no means that. It was rather unmitigated hatred for the man who so vigorously and boldly arraigned his party for a palpable breach of faith, and so mercilessly scathed them for it. In his passion he failed to apprehend his own mental state, and did not properly define it. Beyond question he and many others of his party would like to despise Mr Conkling and other Republican statesmen. Perhaps they actually delude themselves with the idea that they do hold them in contempt, but the relations of the two parties and the character of the men on either side forbid it. There is as little in the character, the abilities, and the record of the man on one side to warrant their feeling, or pretending to feel, contempt for their opponents, as there is in the other to be despised.

Mr Lamar mistakes also the temper both of the time and the men with whom he has to deal. No man should know better than Mr Lamar the readiness of Northern Republicans and representative men of the party, to meet more than half way all conciliatory advances from the people and the representatives of the South. He could not have failed to see it in the warm and cordial recognition they gave to his eulogy of Mr. Sumner, and the hearty response to it from all quarters of the North. He must have observed the frequent manifestations of the same spirit whenever any prominent Southern man offered the slightest indication of fraternal or kindly feeling. But Mr. Lamar and his colleagues seem unable to appreciate or comprehend it. They construe every demonstration of good-will as an apology, every friendly advance as a surrender of the points which have been in such fierce and bitter dispute. All these things they accept as tokens of a universal desire at the North for the return of the old times and the old rule. They look upon the reaction as a permanent political change, and upon the revolution as virtually accomplished. In this state of affairs they are impatient of what they consider factious obstruction of their designs. They hold themselves masters of the situation already, and are bitterly intolerant of the opposition of Republicans in Congress. This is the grand mistake of all, and one they will shortly begin to see more clearly.

Mr Lamar forgets, too, that under the reign of a new and better civilization than that which obtained before the war, bullying is not in fashion, and that the barbarism of the Code to which he so loftily invited Mr Conkling is not in vogue. When he bristled to the front and construed Mr. Conkling's very proper and deserved scathing of his party for their breach of faith as personal to himself, he exceeded the bounds of parliamentary courtesy.—When he denounced Mr Conkling's statements as false, he played the blackguard. When he flung out the expression of his unmitigated contempt he played the bully. When to this he added his final insult, that his own language was such as no good man deserved and no brave man would bear he became simply a contemptible braggart flaunting his own disregard for law and challenging his opponent to descend to the level of his own lawlessness.—The times have changed since that sort of thing silenced or cowed Northern men or passed for manliness or courage. The questions upon which Mr Lamar sets himself at fighting odds with a fellow Senator have been fought over and fought out upon a larger field than that upon which he aspires to figure. He and his Democratic associates are in the Senate to day because of the belief that these questions had been settled; and that the settlement was accepted as definite and final. If this belief is delusive, as it seems soon to be, the people will shortly make it final by a reformation of the verdict.—Meantime let it be understood that the old days of bullying have not quite come back.

PLEDGE TO THE DEAD

BY WILLIAM WINTER.

[Read at the banquet of the Society of the Army of the Potomac at Albany, June 18, 1879]

I

From the lily of love that uncloses
In the glow of a festival kiss;
On the wind that is heavy with roses
And shrill with the bugles of bliss,
Let it float o'er the mystical ocean
That breaks on the kingdom of night—
Our oath of eternal devotion
To the heroes who died for the right

II

They loved, as we love, yet they parted
From all that man's spirit can prize—
Left woman and child broken-hearted,
Staring up to the pitiless skies,
Left the tumult of youth, the sweet guerdon
Hope promised to conquer from Fate,—
Gave all, for the agonized burden
Of death for the Flag and the State!

III

Where they roam on the slopes of the mountain
That only by angels is trod
Where they muse by the crystalline fountain
That springs in the garden of God
Are they lost in unspeakable splendor?
Do they never look back and regret?—
Ah, the valiant are constant and tender,
And Honor can never forget!

IV

Divine in their pitying sadness
They grieve for their comrades of earth
They will hear us and start into gladness,
And echo the notes of our mirth
They will lift their white hands in a blessing
We shall know by the tear that it brings—
The rapture of friendship confessing,
With harps and the waving of wings!

V

In that grim and relentless upheaval
Which blessed the world through a curse,
Still enringing the good out of evil—
The garland of peace on the hearse!—
They were shattered, consumed and forsaken,
Like the shadows that fly from the dawn
We may never know why they were taken,
But we always shall feel they are gone

VI

If the wind that sighs over our prairies
No longer is solemn with knells—
But lovely with flowers and fairies,
And sweet with the calm Sabbath bells
If Virtue, in cottage and palace
Leads Love to the bridal of Pride
The rebellious out of war a bitter chalice
Our heroes drank deeply—and died!

VII

Ah grander in doom's stricken glory
Than the greatest that linger behind
They shall live in perpetual story,
Who saved the last hope of mankind!
For their cause was the cause of the races
That languished in slavery's night
And the death that was pale on their faces
Has filled the whole world with its light!

VIII

To the clouds and the mountains we breathe it,
To the freedom of planet and star,
Let the tempests of ocean enwreathe it
Let the winds of the night bear it far—
Our oath that till manhood shall perish,
And honor and virtue are sped,
We are true to the cause that they cherish,
And eternally true to the dead

THE STATE CONVENTION

Half rates will be given to delegates attending the Republican State Convention to be held in this city June 26th, over the following roads Maine Central, including leased lines, European & North American, including all connecting lines, Knox & Lincoln, Grand Trunk, Portland & Ogdensburg, Portland & Rochester, Rumford Falls and Buckfield, and the St Croix & Penobscot. A special train will leave Portland at 5 30 o'clock, A. M, the day of the Convention, running via Lewiston, leaving that place at 7 05 and Waterville at nine, arriving in Bangor at 10 50 A. M. A special train will leave Bath at 6 o'clock Thursday morning, Brunswick, 6 30, Augusta, 8 05, arriving at Waterville 8 50 and connecting with the train from Portland. Returning the train will leave Bangor at 4 30 P. M. Trains will be held at Newport and Burnham until the arrival of the return trains, so that Dexter and Belfast delegates may return the same night. A special train will return to Skowhegan to connect with return train leaving Waterville at 6 30 P M.

The Maine Central, Grand Trunk, Knox & Lincoln, E. & N. A., including connecting lines, St. Croix & Penobscot, and the Rumford Falls and Buckfield roads will issue tickets at all the stations along the lines to the Convention and return for single rate. The Portland and Penobscot steamers will make single rates for the round trip, to delegates. The sale of tickets to the Convention will commence Wednesday morning, June 25th.

A despatch received Saturday announces that the President has nominated Gen. Joseph S. Smith, of this city, for Collector of Customs. This is the third nomination that has been made to displace Mr. Fox, and from all we can learn it seems that Gen. Smith has been selected through the influence of friends in official circles in Washington with whom he was connected in the Army, and who have successfully urged his military record. Our readers are well aware that we have held from the outset that the expressed wishes of this community for the retention of the present faithful and efficient Collector should be regarded, but the President seems determined that the man who by all rules has the strongest claim to the place shall not have it, and as his power to make new nominations is practically unlimited, it is doubtful if our Senators will deem it worth while to make any further effort to hold the Executive to the maintenance of his own doctrines, by which Mr. Fox should certainly be retained. As the President is determined to select a Collector for this port without regard to his civil service proclamations or the expressed preferences of the community, we shall waste no more time or printer's ink in reminding him of what we believe to be his duty. As for Mr. Fox, he can afford to stand upon the cordial indorsement he has received from the community and his official superiors.

Democracy wanted to make a record, eh? Well, three months spent in revamping State rights' doctrines, threatening the stoppage of the Government, attacking the army, assailing the Judiciary, bullying the Executive, denouncing the laws embodying the fruits of the war, and talking revolution, ought to answer for a record. They can add to it how a vigorous effort to revive the code duello. Its a beautiful record!"—Boston Traveller

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

The Promoter and Perfector of Assimilation.

The Reformer and Vitalizer of the Blood.

The Producer and Invigorator of Nerve and Muscle.

The Builder and Supporter of Brain Power.

Fellows' Compound Syrup is composed of Ingredients identical with those who constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve and Brain Substance, whilst Life itself is directly dependent upon some of them.

By its union with the blood and its effect upon the muscles, re-establishing the one and toning the other, it is capable of effecting the following results

It will displace or wash out tuberculous matter and thus cure Consumption.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, weary, overtax or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Acute or Chronic, Congestion of the lungs, even in the most alarming stages.

It cures Asthma, Loss of Voice, Neuralgia, St. Vitus Dance, Epileptic Fits, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diphtheria.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name, no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Look out for the name and address J I FELLOWS', St John, N B, on the yellow wrapper in watermark, which is seen by holding the paper before the light.

FORTY SIXTH CONGRESS—First Session

Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C, June 21.

The communication from the Secretary of the Navy in answer to a resolution transmitting the report of Naval Engineers and the officer appointed to examine the plans of refrigerating ships and machinery was ordered printed

A joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay Prof Collier $3 500 for services as chemist in the prosecution of evasions of duties on sugar was passed.

The concurrent resolution authorizing the printing of 12 000 extra copies of the reports and proceedings of the Paris Monetary Conference was adopted

A resolution authorizing the Committee on elections to sit during recess to continue the investigation of the Spofford-Kellogg contest was adopted

A resolution calling on the President for information as to lives, and property lost in certain wars was adopted The bill to provide office room for the National Board of Health and for the publication of its reports and to authorize it to erect necessary quarantine buildings and acquire titles to real estate passed

The conference report on the Judicial Expenses bill was called up by Mr Wallace and adopted

The bill providing for the filling of vacancies in office of chief of engineers, of the United States army passed It is the same as one of the amendments to the Army Appropriation bill

A resolution authorizing an investigation of Mr Ingalls election was adopted

Mr Kellogg introduced a bill to provide ocean mail steamship service between the United States and South America Referred to Committee on Commerce

The bill regulating Chinese emigration was taken up Mr Slater favored it in a long speech After his remarks the bill was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations

The President pro tem announced his signature to the Army Appropriation bill and to the Judicial Expenses appropriation whereupon they were sent to the President

The bill fixing the rate of interest upon arrearages of general taxes and assessments for special improvements in the District of Columbia passed

The Letter Carriers Deficiency bill was taken up The Appropriation Committee reduced it from $415 000 to $400,000

The appropriation of $71,000 for increased salaries was stricken out

The committee added an appropriation of $15,000 to enable the Commissioner of the General Land Office to settle claims of several States for swamp lands, also one of $100,000 for judgments of the Court of Claims Also $1,122 for salary of an additional Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia The amendments were adopted.

The bill was reported to the Senate, amendments concurred in and it was passed

The joint resolution authorizing the completion of the foundation of the Washington monument was passed. Adjourned to Monday.

House

Mr. Cobb rose to a question of personal privelege regarding the statement of the Indianapolis Journal, that he had repeated the threadbare lie about Massachusetts regiments interfering with voters in Indianapolis in October 1864. This lead to a sharp colloquy in which Warner, Brown, Baker and De La Matyr participated. The matter was finally dropped and Mr. Kenna from the Committee on Enrolled bills reported the Army Appropriation bill and it was signed by the Speaker. The House resumed the bill prohibiting political assessments.

Mr Hostetter withdrew his demand for the previous question and moved to refer the bill to the Committee of the Whole and on that motion demanded the previous question. The Republicans then, notwithstanding the intimation from Mr Springer that bill would not be taken up for consideration at the present session, refrained from voting thus leaving the House without a quorum

During one of the roll calls a message was received from the President announcing his approval of the Legislative bill.—The announcement was greeted with applause on the Republican side, and Mr Garfield remarked "We have provided for ourselves, now let us provide for the rest of the government"

The Supplementary Judicial bill as enrolled was signed by the Speaker and sent to the Senate for signature of the presiding officer

The morning hour expired without action on the anti political assessment bill and it went over until the next morning hour

During to-day's session there was utter apathy manifested by the members and it was almost impossible to obtain a quorum on any vote although on one roll call one hundred eighty nine answered

At 3 45 p m, the House took up the business on the Speaker's table The bill to establish post roads in certain States passed. The Senate amendments to the bill relating to printing impressions from portraits of the bureau of engraving and printing were referred to the Committee on Banking.

After debate in which Mr Baker opposed the bill as the introduction of a gigantic scheme that would cost $100,000,000 and in which Mr. Garfield sustained it as a great work in which men from the North and South could clasp hands together, the amendments were concurred in the principal one being to make the number of Commissioners seven and it was amended by Mr. Hooker that Prof. Hilgard is to be the additional Commissioner. Adjourned.

WESTON WINS

The Belt and the Astley Bet.

ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS BEATEN.

LONDON, June 21 The walking match was finished at 10.50 P. M. Weston made 550 miles and Brown 543. This beats Brown's record in the last match and all previous records. About 5000 people witnessed the finish Weston wins his bet with Sir John Astley that he would make 550 miles. Rowell who brought away the belt from New York says he will challenge Weston immediately.

Gate Money

NEW YORK, June 22 London specials say the profits of the walking match will not exceed $3,000 Weston has two-thirds of this, besides his stakes Ennis returns to the United States in a fortnight twenty-five hundred dollars out of pocket. He and Panchatt both enter for a struggle in New York

Judicial Expense Bill Approved.

WASHINGTON, June 21. The President this morning approved the bill making appropriations for the legislative, executive and judicial expenses of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1880 and for other purposes

Amendatory Resolution Approved

The President has also approved the joint resolution amendatory of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, approved March last The most interesting features of the joint resolution are as follows The repeal of the clause which authorized and empowered the Secretary of War to lease the water power at Moline to the Moline Water Power Co and the appropriation of $40,000 for the extension of the military telegraph lines from Helena, Montana, and from Fort Elliott, Texas, westward.

Nomination Withdrawn

It is reported that the President has withdrawn Secretary McCrary's nomination as the successor of Judge Dillon

TEXAS

Serious Charges Against the Governor

NEW YORK, June 21 —The Grand Jury of Harris county, Texas, yesterday passed resolutions that Gov Roberts, in commuting the sentence of two murderers, was guilty of an outrage, that his action is subversive of peace and the life of citizens, that he has defeated the ends of justice; that he is utterly unfit for the position he occupies, and he is an upholder of infamous and dangerous crime. At an indignation meeting of the citizens Gov. Roberts was heartily denounced, and resolutions were adopted demanding his resignation

NEW YORK CITY.

The Collision of the Italy and Canada

NEW YORK, June 21. Steamers Italy and Canada, of the National Line, the former bound for Liverpool, and the latter for London, started on their voyage this morning, about 7 o'clock Both were filled with passengers—the Italy having 80 saloon and a large number of steerage passengers, and the Canada 70 saloon passengers When off Bedloe's Island, the Italy, in some unknown manner collided with barque Barbarossa, Capt Cordes, and broke a hole in her side. The Barbarossa was at anchor and had no cargo on board She was run ashore on Bedloe's Island to prevent her sinking

The Italy backed away from the barque, and in so doing came into collision with the Canada Many of the iron plates of the Canada were displaced, and she commenced to leak badly. The Italy was comparatively uninjured, and proceeded on her voyage The Canada is leaking badly, and has been towed to her dock The captain of the barque says his vessel is damaged to the extent of $20 000

Arrest for Stealing $10,000

James Burns and Wm J Cornell were arrested here to-day on a charge of stealing $10 000 from the government printing office in Washington, last January They were taken to Washington

The Tilden Revolution Absurdity

Ex-Secretary Robeson says that General Grant never had any fears of an uprising in behalf of Mr Tilden in New York as stated by Mines He never said anything about such fears to him, nor does Mr Robeson believe that Mr Woodford ever said any such thing, and the whole story must be false

THE MURDERED PRINCE

Comments of the French Press

PARIS, June 21 In regard to the death of the Prince, the Legitimist organ, La Union, the Univers, the Gazette de France, the Monde and the Francais express sorrow for the dead and respectful sympathy for the bereaved

Des Debats says: "In view of so tragical an end, we remember only that the Prince was a Frenchman and has fallen as a soldier"

Le Temps speaks of the Prince as the last incarnation of the Imperial idea, and declares that the Napoleonic system has no longer a representative

La France says that the event is equal in importance to the death of the Comte de Chambord, whenever that shall occur.

L'Opinion Nationale expresses respect for the grief of the Bonaparte family, but says it cannot refrain from noting the gravity of the disaster inflicted by Providence on the enemies of the Republic

The Constitutional Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, June 21. The Constitutional Convention adopted articles 9, 10 and 12 relative to delinquent taxpayers Article 9 gives the tax collector the right to sell without suit property for non-payment of taxes, which may, however, be redeemed by paying 20 per cent. in addition to price and costs within one year. All deeds given by the tax collector are to be recognized by the courts as prima facie evidence of sale. Article 10 prohibits the Legislature from passing any law which would postpone payment of taxes except in case of general destruction of crops, or other public calamity.

THE INDIANS.

More Trouble in Dakota—A Number Killed.

NEW YORK, June 21. Indian Agent Bird at Poplar river has called on Colonel Huston, of Fort Buford, to send him troops as the Indians of his agency are boiling over with discontent. On Wednesday a detachment, including Co. E, of the Sixth Infantry, was sent out under Capt. Britton. Lieut Walker, with some of the agency people, have been sent on board the steamer Montana, bound up the river, and the agency store closed. The squaws have stopped work on the agency farm. The steamer Josephine, which arrived at Buford to-day, reports seeing dead bodies along the river bank, indicating that some bloody work has been done.

A BENEFIT. Mr Byron, Mr. Cowper, Mr. Leach and Miss Greybrooke, of the "Celebrated Case" Company remain in the city for the purpose of appearing at Mr Wooderson's benefit, next Monday evening This being the first benefit he has ever taken in his native city a large audience may be expected. A very attractive bill is in preparation consisting of the great metropolitan success of "Our Boarders."

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY. The Penobscot County Council of P. of H, held a "Basket Picnic" with Eastern Star Grange, Hampden, Saturday. The granges in the vicinity were well represented, and this the first, meeting under the new organization proved a perfect success. The objects of this association are mutual improvement and to encourage a love for rural life and education. The next meeting will be held with Pine Grove Grange, Brewer, on the third Saturday in August

LOOK OUT FOR THEM If the weather is favorable there will doubtless be an immense crowd of people in the city to-day, as the various railroads all run special trains, and those who do not live near the line of the railroad will come by teams, so that the streets will be crowded most of the time. Our merchants and citizens generally will do well to see that their doors are not left open or unguarded when the procession is passing, as there will be lots of parties circulating in the crowd who are looking for such opportunities

A YOUTHFUL OFFENDER Saturday afternoon a small boy snatched a fifty cent piece from the hands of one of his playmates and ran to a confectionery store, where he expended four cents The owner of the coin used his lungs to a good advantage which attracted the notice of one of the police who, after learning the facts of the case, followed the youthful offender, whom he found with the remaining forty six cents in his pocket. He was taken to the station house, where he was locked up for a while, and we venture to say that it will be a long time before he does anything that will necessitate his going there again

A POPULAR EXCURSION Our citizens are now beginning to talk about the grand excursion to the White Mountains that leaves this city on the fifteenth of next month, and which promises to be one of the pleasantest, as well as most inexpensive trips of the season The party will start from the Maine Central depot on a special train, and at North Conway they will take the celebrated observation cars, on the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad, which afford the traveler every advantage for admiring the beautiful scenery along the line of the road The excursionists will pass through the Notch, by the Crawford and Fabyan Houses, and at Bethlehem will take the narrow gauge cars for the famous Profile House, in the midst of the Franconia Mountains The regular excursion party will be gone three days, but those who desire can remain longer, as the tickets will be good for ten days The expense of the trip, including hotel bills, will be $15, and persons can now leave their names at W E Brown's office on Main street.

TEMPERANCE. A very large audience was in attendance yesterday upon the Reform Club's public meeting President Seavey occupied the chair and read a portion of Scripture which was followed by prayer by Rev Prof. Hamlin Mr Seavey in opening remarks, told his hearers that the grim messenger death had called from the ranks of the Club during the week last past one of its members, Mr William Strange, and asked the choir to sing an appropriate selection. Messers McFarland, Richardson Coffin and F Whittier followed in brief but feeling tributes to the memory of the deceased brother Miss Alice Rowe read an original poem, "The Red Ribbon," and for her faultless rendition of the same received much praise Mr C. A. Page, appealed for recruits to the side of right and of God, and all he said met with deserved approval Mr Henry White, of New York, made some good remarks and Rev Mr Hamlin also interested the audience by his sound reasoning. Ex-President McIntyre, who leaves this morning for Boston, Mrs Pickard and Mrs. Crossman also added fitting address, and the exercises closed by a brief yet successful plea for signatures to the pledge by President Seavey.

BARNUM

His Grand Parade, and Great Show To-Day

The "Greatest Show on Earth" arrived here last evening from New Brunswick, with its four special trains, via the E & N. A Railway Its visit to the Maritime Provinces, as we learn from our exchanges therefrom, has been a source of great pleasure to the people of the Provinces, and the progess of the show throughout their country was one continued ovation

Mr. Barnum informs us that it will be several years before his show will again visit Maine, as it is his intention to carry his establishment to Europe, in 1880, and remain there for several years Our readers should bear this in mind, and embrace the opportunity afforded to-day of seeing this mammoth show.

Weather permitting, the street parade will start from the show ground, on Lime street, at nine o'clock this morning, and move over our principal streets Persons who have seen this street pageant, and the testimony of the press from places where Barnum has exhibited during the present season, assert that, in magnitude, novelty and magnificence, the procession eclipses anything of the kind ever presented to the public. One writer gives the following description of the attractive features of the parade. "The stateliest procession that graced our city, passed down our highways this morning. No Roman triumphal entry, no victorious pageant of Cæsar's can be compared to it. The glittering banners, the many brilliant colors, the flaunting flags and the gilded carving and figures made our streets rich in gorgeous hues, and won the admiration of all beholders It was indeed the paragon of parades—a scene of unparalleled grandeur.

An office for the sale of reserved seats and general admission tickets has been opened at Davenport's music store, and all who desire reserved seats (of which there are but few) and general admission tickets, should secure them at the above place; by so doing they will avoid the annoyance of the crowd surrounding the ticket wagon on the show ground.

BARNUM'S BABY WITH TWO HEADS.

The "Annex" has a variety of curiosities, the greatest of which, perhaps, is the "Two-Headed Girl." This is a Canadian production, the girl—or girls—being the child—or children—of a French Canadian couple, who travel with the show. The best physicians in the country have examined this wonderful freak of nature, and assert that it is all it is represented to be. The child has one body, upon which there are two heads. There are only two legs, but they are the legs of two children. The heads are wholly dissimilar in appearance and in action. One laughs while the other cries, and in all respects they seem to have a separate existence. It is now seventeen months old.

OBITUARY.

Death of Frederick H Smith.

A telegram without particulars announces the sudden death on Saturday afternoon, at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., of Frederick H Smith, son of W. H. Smith, Esq, of this city. Mr. Smith has been in poor health for some time, but the sickness was not regarded as of a serious character. His father, who was with him at the time of his death, had written hopefully of taking a journey to Maine with him the first of this week. On Saturday morning news was received that he was not improving, but the news of his death was the first intimation to the family of the dangerous character of his disease

Mr Smith was thirty two years of age, and well known in this city, where his boyhood and a large part of his later years have been passed He commenced business in this city in the store at the corner of Washington and Exchange streets as a partner in the firm of Holmes & Smith In 1867 he associated himself with E B Nealley, in the business of ship stores and chandlery at the same place under the firm name of Smith, Nealley & Co. A year later this firm bought out the establishment of Thurston, Crosby & Co, on Broad street associating with them Elbridge C Hincks and taking the firm name of Hincks, Smith & Nealley The acquaintance and experience gained in these several firms were of great help to Mr Smith in establishing the house of F H Smith & Co, ship brokers and lumber commission merchants, in New York City, in 1874 Mr Smith's energy and popularity with captains and owners of vessels at once drew the larger portion of the vessels hailing from Maine to his control, while nearly all the lumber merchants of this section bear testimony to the ability and faithfulness with which their consignments have been managed The firm had just removed to a new and enlarged office, and has rapidly taken position as one of the most reliable and enterprising commission houses in New York

Mr Smith leaves a wife and one child The remains will arrive this evening and the funeral services will take place at his father's house to-morrow at half past two o'clock P M

Saturday June 21

State vs Wm Cottle and Mark Thompson This is a complaint against defendants for an attempt to catch salmon in the Penobscot river in violation of law A warrant was issued thereon by virtue of which defendants were brought before Stinson Peaslee Esq, a Trial Justice, June 17th, 1878, who, after hearing the witnesses and the defendants, considered defendants guilty and sentenced each to pay a penalty of five dollars and costs of prosecution taxed at seven dollars and fifty cents

Defendants appealed to the S J Court to be held at Bangor, on the second Tuesday of August, 1878, duly recognized to prosecute their appeal and entered the same At said Court they demurred to the complaint, the court adjudged the complaint good and overruled the demurrer. To which ruling the defendants filed exceptions which were allowed by the Court.

The defendants say no specified place where the offense is alleged to have been committed is named in the complaint, that an attempt to commit an offense being alleged, the failure should also be alleged; and also set up the repeal of the law under which complaint is drawn

Hutchings, Co Att'y — A Sanborn

State vs Mark Thompson This is a complaint against defendant for same offense as in State vs, Cottle et al Comes before the Court in the same manner as the Cottle case

Hutchings, Co Attorney. — A. Sanborn.

County of Penobscot, (By Jasper Hutchings, County Attorney, Petitioner,) vs. The City of Bangor. This case is before the Court to decide the question whether the expenses of the Sheriff's Jury in the recent flowage cases resulting from the building of the water-works dam, should be paid by the County or the City.

Hutchings. — Vose

George Bowen et al. vs. David Warren et als. This is an action brought to recover for certain articles furnished by plaintiff for a vessel owned by defendants. Defendant, Partridge, contended that he was not liable, because not owner in possession, and had nothing to do with the management of the vessel, because the vessel was sailed by the master on shares, and because they were furnished at home port.

Plaintiffs contended that he was liable as owner for articles because in nature of repairs that the master had right to bind the owners for articles necessary to sail and render seaworthy the vessel, even without notice to the owners.

Barker, Vose & Barker. — Stetson.

Geo. Bowen et al vs Aravesta H. Peters et als. Case very like the above case.

Barker, Vose & Barker. — Wilson & Woodard.

A Maine Man Missing Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Five weeks ago one Gabriel Labelle of Chelsea, near Augusta, mysteriously disappeared under circumstances indicating foul play on the part of some person or other. He had recently contracted to purchase a farm in that town, and certain parties supposed he had on his person the money to pay for the same. In reality the money was in other hands for safe keeping. He was a single man, and formerly an inmate of the Soldiers' Home. His [illegible] money, goods and property are at his usual boarding-place. He was not intemperate, and never absented himself without first informing friends. The woods for miles around have been scoured carefully, with no definite results. A suspicious trail leading to a swamp filled with water has been discovered, and awaits further development. Certain parties are suspected of committing the supposed murder.

FROM DEXTER.

New Enterprises—The Lawyers Doctors and Ministers—Desecration of Graves —An Able Minister—More Favorable Weather—Sundry Items

DEXTER June 21, 1879

Editor Daily Whig and Courier

Messrs French & Bridges, who have been for a long time in the employ of Morse & Bridges marble workers in this town, have decided to commence business for themselves at Fort Fairfield Aroostook Co Mr French goes to Boston next week to procure necessary stock and make arrangements for a supply in the future, and will go from there directly to his new location, where he will probably arrive the last of the week. Mr. French served a regular apprenticeship in this town and has been employed by Morse & Bridges for a year or so as a journeyman He understands the business of marble working in its various branches while Mr Bridges who will join his partner in a short time is a skillful worker of granite These gentlemen are in everyway worthy of patronage, and will be found to be good citizens We are sorry to have them leave Dexter, but if they are going away, we certainly congratulate the community in which they have decided to locate The opening for the marble business at Fort Fairfield is evidently a good one the nearest shop is 44 miles distant, and the country is getting to be quite thickly settled, and growing and the people up there are generally in good circumstances

Mr C O Robinson, of Waterville, has opened a confectionary and fruit store directly opposite Merchants Exchange He purposes giving the business a fair trial, and says he shall keep a place that the community can consistently patronize

THE PROFESSIONS

Dexter ought to be a healthy place There are eight doctors amongst us who devote their time to the compounding and administering of pills and pukes There are four regular lawyers here, besides several others who do considerable law business without going to the expense of paying office rent And of ministers, there are eight or more, besides a Catholic priest who comes up from Waterville once a month, to keep things straight

VANDALISM

There are some mighty mean specimens of humanity in Dexter as well as in other localities I am informed that some contemptible pilfering has lately been perpetrated in the Cemetery, where choice flowers and plants, placed upon graves by loving hands, have been carried off by some parties unknown This is not a new practice here, for several years past, the selectmen have been obliged to make a standing offer of reward for the apprehension of such thieves, and they have been thus kept in subjection The common kind of stealing is bad enough, but when it comes to the pilfering of flowers that friends have placed at the last resting place of those whose memory is dear to them, words are feeble to express the feelings which are excited in the minds of decent people by such an outrage.

MINISTERIAL.

The Methodist Society at Dover are very much pleased with their new minister the Rev. C A. Plumer. He is an able man, and his daily walk and conversation is such as befits the position that he occupies. He has only been there since the session of the conference, but he has preached already several exceptionally able discourses. He is very pronounced in his sentiments upon the temperance, question, and does not hesitate to connect himself with the Iron-clads in their great work. Mr. Plumer has heretofore been a Presiding Elder in one of the districts of East Maine Conference.

BETTER WEATHER.

Vegetation, which has been at a stand-still for many days, during the long rainy spell, has just jumped in the last day or two. The growth can be distinctly observed from day to day.

VARIOUS ITEMS.

I hear some loud complaints on the part of some about numerous potato-bugs, others that I ask about it, say they have seen none at all. One man however, declares that he heard another man say that he saw still another man pick a quart of bugs from a very few hills of potatoes and in a very few minutes. I do not vouch for the truth of this remarkable statement, farther than to say that I am positive that I saw the man who told me about it. The worms are commencing operations upon currant bushes, rose bushes, etc, and a vigorous warfare is being waged upon them by the ladies who are interested in the culture of such shrubs

It is expected that there may be developed some curious complications before the bottom facts are got at in the matters between the Trustees of Dexter Savings Bank and the bondsmen of the late Treasurer

The demand for the DAILY WHIG AND COURIER is increasing and the dealer here tells me that he shall be obliged to increase his regular daily order The people are getting to understand where to look for news

ST JOHN'S DAY

The Celebration of the Blue Lodges of the State

[From the Portland Argus.]

The executive committee having in charge the arrangements for the celebration of St John's day on Tuesday, consists of the following gentlemen

Wm. H Smith, Chairman Leander W Fobes, Treasurer, Convers O Leach Secretary; Geo L Beal, F S Faulkner, Franklin Fox C L Drummond A K P Knowlton, B F Andrews, R K Gatley, F E Chase Geo R Shaw G O Bailey, S S Mooney A M Kimball, Albion Keith, E S Ridlon

They have so far completed their arrangements that we are enabled to give the principal features of the programme

The staff of the chief marshal, Gen Geo L Beal, are H R Millett Geo W Parker, Warren E Pressey A M Benson Jos A Locke, chiefs of divisions, Frank G Stevens Andrew J Nichol Joseph I Hodsdon, aides

The procession will be organized of lodges in five divisions In the first division there will be seventeen lodges and seven bands including Chandler's Atlantic lodge Portland has the right of the procession H R Millett is chief of the division

Warren E Pressey is chief of the second division, which will be composed of seventeen lodges and five bands

Capt Geo W Parker will have command of the third division, with twenty five lodges and three bands

The fourth division will be under command of A M Benson and will be composed of six lodges, with Ancient Landmark leading This division is composed of lodges from out the State as follows St John's, Portsmouth, Strafford and another from Dover one from Rochester one from Great Falls N H and one from St Johnsbury Vt There will be four bands, including the Cadet of Boston Salem Cadet band, Dover Cornet band and Great Falls band

The fifth division will be in command of Jos A Locke and be headed by Portland lodge, escorting the Grand Lodge The Yarmouth band heads the division

Thus it will be seen there are to be sixty six lodges and twenty bands

The divisions are to form in columns of fours on streets leading from Congress street the right resting on the latter thoroughfare

The headquarters of the Chief Marshal will be at the corner of Pearl and Congress streets at 10 o'clock and at half past ten the column will start over the following route

Up Congress street to High down High to Deering, through Deering to State countermarch on State where a rest of fifteen minutes will be made thence through Congress, Free Middle Exchange, Congress Pearl and Commercial to steamer

The grand clam bake and other exercises will occur on Hog Island one of the prettiest islands in the harbor The bake will be gotten up by Dir Reed and Billy Broughton In the morning the lodges from out the city will be given a breakfast in City Hall and a lunch before they start for home These will be furnished by Tom Kimball the well known caterer Upon the island during day it is expected there will be a mammoth concert by the combined bands, the leader of the Boston Cadet band acting as conductor

Upon arrival back to the city the procession will be dismissed, each organization under charge of its own marshal

Portland Lodge will escort the Grand Lodge to Masonic Hall

In the evening there will be a grand promenade concert in City Hall under the auspices of the Portland lodges and all visiting brethren that can find it convenient to remain over night are invited to attend There will be a band concert from 8 30 to 9 30 after which will follow dancing Ford & Perry are preparing a unique and elaborate order of dances

The President's objections to the Judicial Expenses bill are solely to the clause which provides that no department or officers of the Government shall during said fiscal year ending June 30 1880 make any contract or incur any liability for the payment of general or special deputy marshals

The sixty hour walk in Boston was won by Hanson, who made 225 miles.

An armed company picnicing at Silver Leaf Grove near Chicago Sunday charged upon and fired several volleys into a crowd outside which had been annoying them Several persons were killed and the whole company arrested

Robinson's Standard Perfumes are recommended to lovers of fine perfumery as unsurpassed for fragrance, truthfulness to nature and permanency of odor These Perfumes are prepared with great care from choice and exceedingly costly material and the large and constantly increasing sales by first class Druggists is the best proof of the estimation in which they are held by persons of culture and refinement These elegant perfumes are for sale by Druggists only, in quantities to suit the purchaser 3m may23

WILBOR'S COMPOUND OF PURE COD-LIVER OIL AND LIME. The advantage of this compound over the plain Oil is, that the nauseating taste of the Oil is entirely removed, and the whole rendered entirely palatable The offensive taste of the Oil has long acted as a great objection to its use; but in this form the trouble is entirely obviated. A host of certificates might be given here to testify to the excellence and success of "Wilbor's Cod-Liver Oil and Lime," but the fact that it is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty is sufficient. For sale by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston, and by all druggists. june15 eod1w

A WISE DEACON Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season when all the rest of us have been sick so much and have had the doctors running to us so long

Bro Taylor the answer is very easy I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one or two hundred dollar apiece to keep sick the same time I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter See other column june 13 2w

The Stomach Cannot be Frighted

With greater trash than a violent drastic purgative. True such a medicine relieves constipation for the time but at the expense of great injury to the intestinal canal, which it both inflames and weakens, thus unfitting it for the performance of its proper functions. Widely different is the action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters a tonic aperient which produces effects prompt, indeed but never violent and convulsing The purity of its botanic ingredients its unobjectionable flavor its genial influence upon the mind, and the thoroughness of its remedial action in cases of constipation, liver complaint and dyspepsia combine to render it a most desirable family specific It increases both physical vigor and substance, tranquilizes and invigorates the nervous system and gives an unwonted relish for the food. A wine glass three times daily is about the average dose. june19 eod 1y

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin

The Lewiston Journal says It is decided that there is no need of enlarging the alms house The "robber resumption act" seems to reduce the number of the deserving poor

J C Briggs Esq, of East Auburn, says that the 19th day of June, 1874, the morning was so cold that men at work in the mill at that place had a fire to keep warm enough to work

The Lewiston Journal says The report of Mr Addison Small, expert appointed to investigate the accounts of the overseers of the poor, states that he found the accounts imperfect and confused

The Lewiston Journal of Saturday, says The Auburn shoe factories have sent off 1 114 cases of goods this week, against 1,329 cases last week and 469 cases in the corresponding week of last year About twice as much leather has been received as in the same week last year. Several of the factories are now changing over from spring to fall work,—without stopping work, for all hands are busy but the shipments will not be so heavy for a few weeks as they have been during the last three months One firm, making more goods than any other save one, received a larger order by one-half the other day than the firm has received since its existence

Cumberland

A new company of cadets will be organized in Portland probably on Wednesday next Some 30 members have already joined and the number will probably be increased to 40 The company will be uniformed and equipped similarly to the Portland Cadets and is composed of a very fine class of young men

The Portland Press says By the will of Lydia Caroline Baker, lately deceased, $100 are left to Ligonia Lodge Odd Fellows to keep in order the lot at Evergreen Cemetery where the remains of her father are interred She also leave $200 each to the Portland Fraternity, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals and Old Ladies Home By the terms of Mr Chas Baker's will the bulk of the property enjoyed by Miss Baker can now be distributed That will leaves $3000 each to Almira Harlow and heirs and the families of Abel M James H and Josiah Baker There is $1000 additional also given to Josiah's family to the Widows Wood and Portland Provident Society $500 each to the American Unitarian Association $1000 to the Martha Washington Society $100 and to the Second Unitarian Church $4000 the latter sum to form a fund for the salary of the minister It is thought under the circumstances the society will not accept the gift but allow it to be distributed among the relatives

Burglars have again visited Yarmouth This time Mr A L Loring found the office of his mill had been broken into and his safe blown open The burglars did not get very well paid for their trouble as very little money had been left in the safe but they carried off a number of notes and other papers of value to the owner

There is a proposition to sell the interest of Portland in the Portland & Rochester Road and a bid of $175,500 is made for it by receiver Wescott By some his bid is thought to be in the interest of the seven per cent bondholders and by others in that of the Grand Trunk Road

Thieves went through Barstow's saloon at Brunswick a few nights since stealing cigars some change and possibly other small articles A man who smokes ought to be above stealing.

The Brunswick Telegraph says Workmen are now repairing and putting, we should say in first class order, the fishway over the factory dam We suppose the owners on the lower dam have received the proper notice from the Fish Commissioners to rebuild that fishway in low stages of water enterely out of the reach of the salmon In fact a fish might as well attempt to climb Jacob's Ladder on the Mt Washington railroad as to gain access to that fishway when the drought comes We are looking out for cheaper fish

Kennebec

Mr A Ross Weeks of Rockland met with severe accident last Friday evening He was in the cellar in the act of reaching for some trellise when his foot slipped and he fell several feet striking his right wrist on a porcelain lamp hade cutting a frightful gash with the broken glass Mr W will not be able to use the right hand for a considerable time

A little 6 year old son of B K Kalloch of Rockland who was playing in the loft of the stable Wednesday afternoon when he fell through one of the feed holes to the floor beneath about 12 feet injuring his head to such an extent as to make him insensible and also causing some internal injury

The Masonic Mutual Relief Association of Rockland was organized Sept 18th 1873 and without any special efforts now numbers 3 0 members There have been fourteen deaths but only twelve assessments, two losses having been paid out of the surplus funds in the treasury The aggregate amount paid to beneficiaries is $1323 and in many cases the bereaved families would have been destitute but for this timely relief There is now in the treasury, free from debt $1250

The ship being constructed at Thomaston by Edward Ellis O'Brien, son of Hon J O Brien is about 2300 tons burthen to be launched about the latter part of August and is to be commanded by Capt George F Wallace late of the Ship Edward O'Brien

Thursday evening a kerosene lamp got broken in the Maine Standard office at Augusta causing pretty lively work among the hands to prevent a disastrous conflagration The fire was extinguished however without the aid of the fire department

Six new cars for the Eastern railroad from Lambert's car works Augusta, passed through Portland also five cars with rails for the Sandy River railroad

The Third Maine Regiment, in accordance with the vote passed last year will hold its reunion this year in Waterville in September

Lincoln

The Belfast Journal says that the run of alewive at Capt Wyman's works in Warren and Damariscotta is over for the season and is the lightest run for twelve years This has been caused by the cold and disagreeable weather the fish running best on bright sunshiny days Notwithstanding the light business, the captain is determined to extend his operations next year

Herman F Pitcher a well to-do farmer of South Waldoboro committed suicide by hanging last week His wife and son went to the village Friday forenoon, leaving Mr Pitcher at work on the farm On their return he was missing but it was supposed he was in the neighborhood Not returning at night alarm was raised and considerable search made which darkness made unsuccessful Saturday morning his lifeless body was found suspended to a large spruce tree but a short distance from the house

Mr William Huston, of Damariscotta, came very near paying a life forfeit for his curiosity on Thursday last by an attempt to fire a tallow candle through a board The gun exploded a flying splinter striking him in the neck and laying bare the jugular vein

Mrs Nancy Donnell, residing at Sheepscot Bridge, aged 75 years, widow of the late Kingsbury Donnell, and a pensioner under act for 1812 soldiers and widows, died very suddenly at about nine o'clock Wednesday evening She had been in her usual health until a few hours before her death

Sagadahoc

The Telegraph says We visited the Feldspar mill in Topsham one day last week, as the location is a charming one, and more we desired to learn what was going on there We found three pans in full work, and the quarrymen also at work One pan was idle, as was the crusher, Mr Purington the machinist, having it under repair The company is putting in an entirely new grinder, the first we believe set up in this country, the machine being of foreign origin. The apparatus simply consists of a large pan the bottom being paved with French mill stone, a moderate quantity of water is let into the pan, the machinery set in motion, which pushes large blocks of quartz over the pavement, covered with feldspar broken up into small bits. From the time that the broken feldspar is thrown into the pan, until the water is drawn off, the machinery runs continually for twenty-four hours, any stoppage would involve settling of the liquid and hard starting up The new machine going in is an iron cyldinder, 4 or 5 feet in diameter, its interior being lined with porcelain brick Into this cylinder is thrown the finely broken feldspar and a lot of flints, sea pebbles, said to come originally from Greenland shipped to Denmark as ballist, and thence imported into the United States The cylinder is closed and set to revolving, the grinding being dry, and the result of the friction of the flints upon the porcelain bricks It is said that about the same amount can be ground by the new machine in ten hours, that twenty-four are required for in the old wet machine

Washington

The Advertiser says Those who doubt that business is improving, even in Calais, should see the increasing amounts of of freight brought here every week They begin to look like old times

The Calais Advertiser says Mr McNusick is going into the horse business, extensively His last venture is a beautiful Kentucky horse which is said to be very fast If the company now interested succeed Calais will soon be as noted for horses and driving as it was fifteen years ago We understand a company has been formed which has bought the old trotting park and will fit it up for business

York

Mr Robert Cousens of Limington, had a narrow escape last Friday In taking away a plank it was caught by the circular saw, bringing Mr C in contact with it Fortunately it was going at very slow speed else he would probably have been killed

A barn containing 20 tons of hay belonging to Miss Thomas Littlefield at Wells was burned a few days ago Building and contents insured

SCRIBNERS MONTHLY

CONDUCTED BY J G. HOLLAND

The Handsomest Illustrated Magazine in the World.

The American edition of this periodical is now

MORE THAN 70,000 MONTHLY

And it has a larger circulation in England than any other American magazine Every number contains about one hundred and fifty pages and from fifty to seventy five original wood cut illustrations

Announcements for 1878–9.

Among the attractions for the coming year are the following

"HAWORTH'S," a serial novel by Mrs Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." The scene of Mrs Burnett's new novel is laid in Lancashire the hero is a young inventor of American birth. "Haworth's" is the longest story Mrs Burnett has yet written It will run through twelve numbers of the Monthly beginning with November 1878, and will be profusely illustrated

FALCONBERG a serial novel by H H Boyesen author of Gunnar "The Man who Lost His Name," &c In this romance, the author graphically describes the peculiarities of Norse immigrant life in a Western Settlement.

A STORY OF NEW ORLEANS, by George W Cable to be begun on the conclusion of "Falconberg This story will exhibit the state of society in Creole Louisiana about the years 1803-4-5, the times of the Cession, and a period bearing a remarkable likeness to the present Reconstruction period

PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN POETS This series (begun in August with the portrait of Bryant) will be continued that of Longfellow appearing in November These portraits are drawn from life by Wyatt Eaton and engraved by T Cole They will be printed separately on tinted paper as frontispieces of four different numbers Illustrated sketches of the lives of the poets will accompany these portraits.

STUDIES IN THE SIERRAS.—A series of papers (mostly illustrated) by John Muir the California naturalist. The most graphic and picturesque and, at the same time exact and trustworthy studies of "The California Alps that have yet been made The series will sketch the California Passes Lakes Wind Storms and Forests

A NEW VIEW OF BRAZIL Mr Herbert H Smith, of Cornell University a companion of the late Prof Hartt is now in Brazil with Mr J Wells Champney (the artist who accompanied Mr Edward King in his tour through "The Great South") preparing for SCRIBNER a series of papers on the present condition,—the cities, rivers and resources of the great empire of South America

THE "JOHNNY REB PAPERS, by an "ex Confederate" soldier, will be among the raciest contributions to Scribner during the coming year They are written and illustrated by Mr Allen C Redwood, of Baltimore The first of the series, Johnny Reb at Play," appears in the November number

THE LEADING EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES. We are now having prepared for SCRIBNER articles on the leading Universities of Europe They will be written by an American College Professor, Mr H H Boyesen, of Cornell (author of Falconberg etc) and will include sketches of the leading men in each of the most important Universities of Great Britain and the Continent.

Among the additional series of papers to appear may be mentioned those on HOW SHALL WE SPELL (two papers by Prof Lounsbury) THE NEW SOUTH, LAWN PLANTING FOR SMALL PLACES (by Samuel Parsons, of Flushing) CANADA OF TO DAY, AMERICAN ART AND ARTISTS AMERICAN ARCHÆOLOGY, MODERN INVENTORS also Papers of Travel History, Physical Science, Studies in Literature, Political and Social Science, Stories Poems "Topics of the Time, by Dr J G Holland record of New Inventions and Mechanical Improvements Papers on Education, Decoration, etc. Book Reviews fresh bits of Wit and Humor, etc., etc etc

Terms, $4 a Year in advance;

35 cents a Number.

THE BANGOR DAILY

WHIG and COURIER

will commence its Forty Sixth Volume with the New Year, with all departments fully equipped and prepared to maintain its position as one of

The Leading Daily Papers of New England.

THE WHIG AND COURIER receives all the telegraphic news of the Maine Associated Press and has an extensive corps of correspondents throughout the State, with special writers at the State and National Capitals. The Publishers aim to make it in all respects a

First Class Family Newspaper,

devoting care to the presentation of entertaining and instructive news and literary matter, to the encouragement of Agriculture, manufacturing and other home interests with original and selected stories and poetry, book reviews, and choice miscellany will give the proceedings of Congress and the State Legislature, with telegraphic quotations of the Produce and Financial Markets, and events at Augusta this winter will be chronicled daily by a thoroughly informed special correspondent.

ITS REGULAR REPORTS

IN THE POLITICAL FIELD

the WHIG AND COURIER will continue to advocate and uphold the Principles of the Republican Party, while claiming to be independent, in the highest and best sense of the word. Fearless and outspoken in the treatment of all public questions and firmly maintaining what they believe to be right they will avoid intolerance and make their appeals to the understanding rather than to prejudice The coming year will be one of the most important in the political history of the country, and the WHIG AND COURIER congratulates itself that the Republican Party of the Union will enter the year 1879 united upon the platform of Principles which that paper has steadfastly maintained while so many wavered. Its aim will be in the future, as in the past, to give the earliest and most reliable information and to favor only such measures and policy as will best protect the rights and promote the welfare of all the people.

The Whig and Courier

will be sent by mail postage paid, at the following rates, invariably in advance

$8.00 per year, $4 00 for 6 mos., $2 for 3 mos $1 50 for the session of the Legislature.

THE BANGOR WEEKLY COURIER

is the largest weekly paper published in New England Every issue is accompanied by a two-page Supplement, making a newspaper of almost entirely devoted to reading matter It contains all the latest telegraph news up to the hour of going to press, and gives the substance of a whole week's edition of the Daily, with a large amount of family reading.

Terms, postage paid, in advance

$2.00 per year, $1.00 for 6 mos, 50 cts for 3 mos.

Or to Clubs in any one town

15 copies for 1 year, $27.00, 25 copies 1 year, $42.75, 30 copies 1 year, $48.00, with copy free to person remitting money for the club.

ST. NICHOLAS,

Scribner's Illustrated Magazine

FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.

AN IDEAL CHILDREN'S MAGAZINE.

Messrs SCRIBNER & Co in 1873 began the publication of ST NICHOLAS an Illustrated Magazine for Girls and Boys, with Mrs Mary Mapes Dodge as editor Five years have passed since the first number was issued, and the magazine has won the highest position It has a monthly circulation of OVER 50,000 COPIES.

It is published simultaneously in London and New York and the transatlantic recognition is almost as general and hearty as the American Although the progress of the magazine has been a steady advance, it has not reached its editor's ideas of best because her ideal continually outruns it, and the magazine as swiftly follows after To day ST NICHOLAS stands

Alone in the World of Books:

The New York Tribune has said of it "ST NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for its service wider resources in art and letters than any of its predecessors or contemporaries" The London Literary World says There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice production of Scribner's press"

Good Things for 1878–9.

The arrangements for literary and art contributions for the new volume—the sixth—are complete drawing from already favorite sources, as well as from promising new ones Mr Frank R. Stockton's new serial story for boys,

"A JOLLY FELLOWSHIP,"

Will run through the twelve monthly parts,—beginning with the number for November, 1878, the first of the volume —and will be illustrated by James F Kelly The story is one of travel and adventure in Florida and the Bahamas. For the girls a continued tale,

"Half a Dozen Housekeepers,"

By Katharine D Smith, with illustrations by Frederick Dielman, begins in the same number, and a fresh serial by Susan Coolidge, entitled "Eyebright," with plenty of pictures, will be commenced early in the volume There will also be a continued fairy tale called

"Rumpty Dudget's Tower,"

Written by Julian Hawthorne, and illustrated by Alfred Fredericks About the other familiar features of St Nicholas, the editor preserves a good humored silence, content, perhaps to let her five volumes already issued prophesy concerning the sixth, in respect to short stories, pictures, poems humor instructive sketches and the lore and lore of Jack in-the Pulpit" the Very Little Folks department and the Letter box, and Riddle box
